About the Judge

Deborah Stapleton served as Director of AMOA for 39 years. During that time she was active in the museum profession serving on board and as an officer at the state and the Midwest Regional level. Part of her participation was to provide a voice for small museums and the value they add to their communities and their importance nationally.

During her tenure with AMOA, she was a multi-year panelist and grants adjudicator for the Indiana Arts Commission and was honored to serve on the Governor's Arts Awards committee. Deborah taught Art Appreciation for 7 years as an adjunct professor in the Department of Art at Anderson University. Through the years she curated or co-curated multiple exhibitions; some of which traveled to museums and other public locations throughout Indiana and neighboring states.

While honored to judge a variety of art exhibitions and festivals, none have been more meaningful to her than to be asked to judge the 100th Anniversary show for the Art Association of Madison County.
