JUDGE

Stefan Petranek (b. 1977) is an image based artist and associate professor of Photography and Intermedia at Indiana University's Herron School of Art & Design on the IUPUI Campus. Working with subjects that range from genetics to climate change, his work explores how contemporary culture, especially through advances in science and technology, affects our perception of nature and how we define it today.

As a 2021 Critical Mass Finalist and awardee of the 2018 Christel DeHaan Artist of Distinction Award, he regularly exhibits work nationally and internationally. Recently, his work has appeared at the Lishui Photography Festival in China (2021), Northwestern University's Dittmar Gallery (2021) and Manifest Gallery among others. Petranek's The Future is Broken, Brain Tumor Diaries, and Genetic Portrait Project series have all received critical recognition including a review by Lenscratch, inclusion in Front Line Genomics Magazine, and publication in Playa's 2019 Anthology catalog. He currently resides with his family in Indianapolis.
